Jolies Party on Cruise Ship

Angelina shows up without adopted kids; good time had by all

The entire Jolie clan and a whole bunch of Gleasons enjoyed a week-long cruise aboard the Carnival Victory. Joe and Gale were generous enough to pay for the cruise, flight, and hotel and take care of all the travel arrangements.

the duration of the cruise. Angelina, Carrie Ann, and Andrea are pictured above having a good time at one of the lounges.

The next big Jolie get-together is Canada Day weekend, although Angelina isn't expected to attend because she's very very very pregnant.

GlennaTracker 2000

Glenna and her friend Mike are currently touring parts of Europe. They left Toronto sometime in the middle of May and will probably wander around Europe until the end of June.

They do not have a formal itinerary, but definitely want to spend a few days at Euro Disney, visit the palace that the queen vacuums, and get in a fist-fight at Oktoberfest Griswold-style. Perhaps they will also eat a Royale with cheese.

Apparently the French love burgers.

If they find a place with internet access, Glenna and Mike will sometimes post updates on jolie.ca.

RECIPE CORNER: CRAZY BABY FAJITAS
